

INTRODUCTION

Volunteers are the face of the Gray Ducks and expected to maintain professional helping relationships with the youth. The personal safety and health of each volunteer is of primary importance.

We will take all reasonable steps needed for personal safety and health. The recreation center includes the needed facilities and equipment to enable volunteers to effectively and comfortably perform their duties.

However, a safe working environment is everyone's responsibility. All volunteers must follow take this training to ensure the safety of our volunteers and youth while maintaining the viability Gray Ducks .

Everything volunteers do may directly or indirectly reflect on the Gray Ducks.

WHY WE TRAIN

It can be hard to balance between being protective of youth and being so protective that the positive parts of programs are lost.

Understanding and following these policies should help you:

1. Get to know the people, program and rules.
2. Find that balance between over- and under-reacting.
3. Deal with situations you may come across during your volunteer experience.

TYPES OF BOUNDARIES

Boundaries are limits in relationships to protect the volunteers and youth we serve. We will focus on these three:

1. Personal boundaries: Physical, emotional and mental limits we establish to protect ourselves from being used or violated by others.
2. Physical boundaries: Limits on your personal space, body and privacy. These define who, how, when and where people can touch you.
3. Property/financial boundaries: Limits around property including your time, money, lending or borrowing things such as money, your cars, clothes, food, time, favors and more.

Boundary policies apply to Gray Ducks volunteers, families and friends.

PERSONAL BOUNDARIES

Personal boundaries allow us to separate who we are, and what we think and feel, from the thoughts and feelings of others.

1. Describe yourself to the youth as a volunteer, not as a friend.
2. Remember your role (professional vs. personal) and your purpose is to be helpful and safe.
3. Be aware of side conversations. You do not want the youth, volunteers to hear anything that might breach our expectations.

4. Never be alone with the youth or other volunteers in a closed-door setting.
5. Do not use your cell phone, have personal conversations, or check personal email in the presence of youth.
6. Do not give advice or share opinions unless related to activities.
7. Do not confide in or disclose personal information or stories to clients.

PERSONAL BOUNDARIES CONT.

- 6. Do not give clients your phone number, address or other contact information.
- 7. Do not give clients the contact/personal information of anyone else.

If any situation feels uncomfortable or causes concern, discuss it with the program director.

ONE - ON - ONE INTERACTIONS

Our policy to limit one-on-one interactions between youth and adults.

This means having at least two adults present at all times with youth.

The goal is to prevent the isolation of one adult and one youth, a situation that elevates the risk for child sexual abuse.

This is sometimes known as the "Rule of Three."

There are no exceptions.

MATERIAL BOUNDARIES

Some of the youth we serve may be vulnerable to exploitation. Volunteers and youth do not:

1. Borrow or lend money to anyone involved with Gray Ducks.
2. Get involved in banking transactions.
3. Accept money or gifts.
4. Benefit financially from any relationship established in the course of your volunteering.
5. Receive personal banking information, credit cards or PIN numbers.
6. Borrow or lend clothes or other personal property.

Personal financial involvement or pressure to return an item or will most likely strain the relationship and affect the work of Gray Ducks.

WHY BOUNDARIES CAN BE HARD

Boundaries are learned. If your boundaries weren't valued as a child, you probably didn't learn you had boundaries.

It can be hard to set boundaries because you:

- Believe setting boundaries threatens your relationships
- Don't feel you have rights
- Might feel powerless
- Never learned to have healthy boundaries or
- Put others' needs and feelings first.

Any kind of abuse violates personal boundaries. In some cases, boundary violations affect a youth's ability to mature into an independent responsible adult.

SETTING EFFECTIVE BOUNDARIES

People often say they set a boundary, but it didn't help.

There's an art to setting boundaries. If it's done in anger or by nagging, you won't be heard.

Boundaries are not meant to punish, but are for well-being and protection.

1. Be assertive, calm, firm and courteous.
2. If that doesn't work, you may need to communicate consequences to encourage compliance. However, never threaten a consequence if you are not prepared to carry it out.

FIRST RESPONSE

Volunteers need to be prepared to respond immediately to:

- Inappropriate or harmful behavior
- Potential risk situations and
- Potential boundary violations.

Volunteers should first:

1. Attempt to redirect inappropriate behaviors to promote positive behaviors.
2. Briefly explain why the behavior is inappropriate.

All volunteers are responsible to monitor behavior and interactions during events.

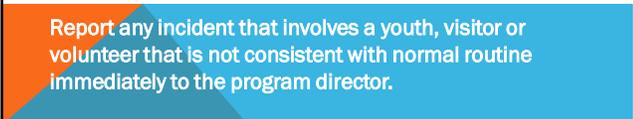

REPORTING REQUIREMENTS

Who must report

Gray Ducks requires all volunteers to report suspicions of child abuse and neglect observed during events.

What do you report

1. Inappropriate or harmful behavior.
2. Infractions of child sexual abuse prevention policies.
3. Evidence or allegations of child sexual abuse.

Report any incident that involves a youth, visitor or volunteer that is not consistent with normal routine immediately to the program director.

WHEN TO REPORT

If there is reasonable suspicion of child abuse, neglect or an allegation has been made, a formal report needs to be made to an outside agency. Report any suspected misconduct involving the youth minors immediately or when safely possible to the following:

1. Program Director at (651)-226-6286 or director@grayducks.org
2. Child Protective Services:
 - Hennepin County - 612-348-3552

3. Local police department.

Note: If the Child is in immediate danger, call 911.

NOT SURE?

IF in doubt, speak with the program director.

The Gray Ducks director is professionally and legally accountable to ensure that all cases of abuse are reported to the proper authorities.

Report allegations and suspicions to very few people inside the organization before authorities are contacted. This expedites the process and minimizes the number of times a youth has to repeat allegations.
